The Rector Writes

It's the time of year when we need some heat about the house. Some people still have open fires or stoves and maybe already have stocked up on coal, blocks or turf for the winter. There are some houses about the parish where you are sure of a great fire burning. Such a fire is certainly warm and welcoming.

Mind you if you have a fire roaring away all evening giving delight to those around it, the next morning presents a different picture. You stare into a cold grate and there are a whole lot of dead cinders and dirty ash which needs clearing out. That's something of a chore and that's why many banish fires and go for the central heating.

One thing about a good fire is that all the coals contribute to the heat and light and to the general warmth and welcome of the scene. Each lit coal helps the others to burn, they draw from each other and they contribute to each other. As you know, if one coal falls out it will only burn for a short time before it goes out. It cannot do without the others.

There is a lesson for us there. On the Day of Pentecost the Holy Spirit came on the disciples like tongues of fire and together they were 'set on fire' and were inspired and fuelled to go to the world with the gospel. They came to enjoy the fellowship of the Holy Spirit and that togetherness was important. They were to encourage and build each other up. The assumption is that apart from the others they might easily loose that fire.

The bible knows little of solitary religion and of private faith alone. It is about the people of God - the Jewish people in the Old Testament and how they responded to the call of God and in the New Testament about the community called the church making up the Body of Christ. Again and again in the New Testament we hear of the words 'one another' and 'together'.

Yes of course there is need for personal faith but there is also need for each other as we seek to practice that faith and to develop it. Just as in a family at times we do things as individuals and at times we do things together, so in the church family there is the place for private devotions but also the need to come together.

So when you are next looking into a fire burning brightly remember how we need each other and how we can help each other to keep the glow in our faith. On our own that glow can easily fade.

RESTORATION APPEAL

A very sincere thank you to all who have contributed to the Restoration Appeal through the Harvest Envelope. At the time of writing just short of £30,000 has been donated - probably the largest sum raised in the parish through a single appeal. Some parishioners particularly were generous and it was good to see that contributions came from across the parish - all 3 churches. We have certainly made a very big dent in the sum of £50,000 that we may have to find over the coming months.

We are also grateful to those who have participated in other events and have thus helped to raise other monies. The GFS Coffee Morning raised £325, Irene's Soup and Maurice's Coffee raised £800, a sum of £750 was donated from the Harvest Supper, the Coffee Morning arranged by Joan Holden resulted in £780 towards the Appeal while the Annual Table Quiz raised another £800. Thanks especially to those who organised these events.

MISSION

As you read this 3 people from the parish will be in Nepal - Cheryl Sinclair, Ian McKay and the rector. Among other things they will be providing a project with children in the Balkhu slum in Kathmandu and the rector has been asked to preach in one of the churches in the slum. Also it is hoped to assist Ady, a friendship with whom has over the developed last few years, to gain a visa so that he can come to Northern Ireland in the New Year.

The four hour vigil last Friday night was a new experience for many of us. We weren't sure quite what we had signed up for. How long can you think of nothing - keep your mind blank without thinking of anything? Four hours seemed a long time at the beginning. What if I fell asleep? How long should I wait before I left? What would be a respectable time when I could leave? I knew I could leave any time but I couldn't be the first. How many should leave before me - could I be fourth or maybe third?

There would be several prayer breaks and the opportunity to have a coffee in the choir vestry - the only place where talking was allowed. It still seemed a long time.

Four hours later I was still there and so was almost everyone else. And I would do it again. It didn't seem like four hours - or even one hour. And my mind did not wander into the secular realms. I did not think of what I had been doing that day or what I had to do later over the weekend.

I can only believe that the atmosphere and the presence of the Holy Spirit guarded us from outside influences and distractions. The breaks into a group, for readings and prayer helped to relax the strain of deep concentration. We also had the opportunity to ponder on and contemplate objects placed around the church. We were all asked to record our experiences of what God was saying to us and place them in a 'Share a Prayer' box for the Clergy to ponder.

Me? Initially I thought of nothing. Or rather I didn't think of anything. And I waited. Sooner than I expected something filled my mind something I could never have anticipated. Not a thought but an image. I think in words not images so this came as a shock. I explored it further looking for a message and I believe I understood what it meant. So I wrote it down. Over the next four hours I had a couple more thoughts just phrases which seemed to say something to me. By then I had stopped thinking of nothing all the time as it was a bit of a strain. I prayed, read the bible, meditated and had a break for a cup of coffee.

I do not envy the clergy the task of sorting out the notes. Some of them will be thought already formed - ideas and proposals in our minds before the vigil. Of course this doesn't mean that God was not the instigator that night.

I hope and pray the outcome is that a direction emerges for our church a direction dictated by God in response to our vigil. Or maybe the result was to make a small group of Christians look into themselves and out to God.

Barry Duke

I attended the Vigil on Friday 19th October. I had decided before I left home that I would only stay for about one hour; which turned out just to be a preconceived idea as I stayed until the end of the Vigil, which culminated with a short service of Holy Communion. When I got to church at around 8 pm it was partially lit with candles positioned in each of the windows. This gave the church an air of peace, quiet and a sense of calmness.

It was lovely just to sit quietly. I used one of our pew bibles and opened at psalm 62 verse 1 - 'For God alone my soul waits in silence'. I had actually wanted to find the psalm with the verse 'Be still and know that I am God', but couldn't remember which of the psalms it was! How appropriate was psalm 62 verse 1 to me?

At various times throughout the night we met together and had an opportunity to pray, at the baptistery, the nave, the choir stalls and finally at the Holy Table.

'Talk breaks' were available in the choir vestry. I must confess I had two! As mentioned earlier the evening finished with Holy Communion when we stood around the Holy Table and shared bread and wine. The Vigil ended around 12.15 am and the sense of calmness remained.

I was so encouraged by this evening and hope that at some time in the near future another one will be arranged to give those who were unable to attend a chance to come along and see for themselves how amazing a Vigil can be.

SQUIRRELS

The Squirrels have been having lots of fun this term. They have all learnt their promise and done really well at our recent Youth Service. The boys have been having a go at some cooking. Since it is nearly Hallowe'en, they made chocolate apples. They even made one for Paul and Ann - delicious!

Poor Mr Squirrel is nearly exhausted as he is being spoilt each week by the boys. He's been to the swimming pool, attended a birthday party and has been to his first pop concert! He has a busier social life than Paul and Ann.

We will be having a fancy dress Hallowe'en party on 24th October. There is bound to be lots of scary costumes and some spooky happenings going We will be having a short break for half term on Wednesday 31st on. October, but we will return on Wednesday 7th November. We will be starting to look forward to Christmas and a very special visitor coming along to see us.

5th BALLYMENA - ST COLUMBA'S SCOUTS

This month the Scout and Explorer sections at St Columba's went a long way towards the completion of their 'Community Challenge Badge'. The project agreed on by the Scouts was a wheelchair-friendly raised bed for donation to and use by the gardening group at

Community Challenge Badge Work

Edgcumbe Learning Disability Day Centre in East Belfast. We finished it off by painting it our signature scout scarf blue and look forward to delivering it soon. The project also played an integral part of the Harvest decorations St in Columba's Church.

remember Please that our troop is continuing to grow

- all boys, girls and adult helpers are very welcome to come along for an evening and see how they find Scouts! For more information or to contact a leader please refer to our website: www.stcolumbasscouts.co.uk ASL Richard McQuillan

Last month Sure Start came along and gave us a very enjoyable session of action songs - we look forward to them coming back in November. Our coffee morning for the ladies and gentlemen who help us each week was on 10th October and enjoyed by all who were able to attend. We send our best wishes to June McMaster and Oliver Reid. Our Hallowe'en party was on 23rd October - a good time was had by all with fancy dress, chocolate apples and lots more. Mothers and Toddlers will return after the Hallowe'en break on 6th November.

CHURCH LADS' BRIGADE

Thanks to the PSNI who sent two Community Officers to talk with the boys about the dangers of fireworks. The Hallowe'en fancy dress party was enjoyed by everyone and quite a few skeletons came out of the cupboards - plenty of fun and games!

CLB will parade at this year's Remembrance Day Parade in the town and lay a wreath at the cenotaph.

QUIZ 2012

Our annual Table Quiz took place on Wednesday 24th October. We were delighted and encouraged by the large number of people who supported us, not only from all three churches but also neighbours and friends together with friends from the Methodist Church who have become a real part of this annual event. As quiz masters, Ivan and Maurice discovered talent of Olympian standard as various topical and historical subjects were discussed. A great atmosphere of fun and fellowship prevailed throughout a most enjoyable evening. There was a great sense of camaraderie and a wonderful desire to help with the Bell Tower Appeal, not forgetting its significance as one of The Seven Towers of Ballymena - well done everyone!

£800 was raised.

The 'Not So Secret Seven' (Nina, Trevor, Isobel, Ivan, Rosemary, Maurice and Irene) wish to say a special 'Thank You' to the following people:-

- The Clergy and Select Vestry for their support.
- John our Sexton who helped us in so many ways.
- Lorraine in the office for printing, photocopying and publicising the quiz.

- Loraine Watt for excellent publicity and also her help in the kitchen.
- Rodney and Alan for the parking.
- The Badminton Club for the use of the hall on their evening.
- St Columba's for lending us their tables.
- The many folk who, while unable to come gave us such generous donations.
- All our clearer-uppers, not forgetting Anne and Alex.
- And to you all for coming and making our evening such a success.

The 'Scores on the Doors':-

- 1st Prize Always the Bridesmaid (Derek, Linda, Judith, George and friends).
- 2nd Prize The Red Team (Ruth and friends).
- 3rd Prize Rival Factions (a group of badminton players who support us each year).
- Best Name Baffled of Ballymena.

A great big thank you to everyone! See you next year D.V.

ST PATRICK'S CHOIR

The choir commenced its new season in September and after the Harvest Thanksgiving services we are now preparing music for the Advent and Christmas periods.

Mothers

As part of the Christmas Fair, the choir will be responsible for the CD stall. We also hope to hold a 'sponsored hymns' evening in Ballyclug Church early in the New Year - details of this will be provided later.

E. Duddy

MOTHERS' UNION

Our members hosted the Area Service in St Patrick's on 8th October 2012 when over 70 members from the Mid-Connor area joined us for a celebration of Holy Communion led by the Rector. The thanks of the Branch go to Canon Lloyd and to the choir. This was the final event attended by the Diocesan President, Moira Thom, before she moves to a new role within Mothers' Union, Ireland. We were delighted to make a small presentation to recognise her service to the Diocese and wish her well in her new area of responsibility.

The next Branch meeting will be on Wednesday 14th November 2012 at 8.00 pm. when the speaker will be David Graham 'The life and times of a blue badge guide'. A reminder that outstanding dues will be required to be paid at the meeting.

Jean Kennedy, Branch Secretary

I'm sorry to say that there hasn't been much progress with the major project now in front of us at St Patrick's. Last time you'll remember I said we hoped work would begin mid October, but that has come and gone and no start yet. So I won't offer any more hostages to fortune by giving you another date, and just leave it that when the work does eventually start no-one is likely to overlook the fact. Maybe it will have begun by the time you are reading this, which is usually around two weeks after it is written. At the moment it looks like the Harvest gifts will take us to about half way to the funding shortfall previously identified, many very grateful thanks go to everyone for this effort in these straightened times.

If you've been on the Larne Road recently you probably did notice that Roads Service had a contractor along to do some tree surgery and tidy up the undergrowth along the banking below St Patrick's. We are hoping this means that the long awaited re-planting of the area just below the church will also soon happen, so that the current crop of benweed, dockens and thistles might be joined by something a little more attractive to look at.

We can be thankful that at this point in time no other major expenses have come up in relation to the other buildings around the parish. There is some more work to be completed at Ballyclug to fix up the louvre shutters on the tower where some of those have fallen victim to time and weather and rotted to the extent that they are in danger of falling out. St Columba's Committee are planning the installation of a new Audio Visual system to assist during services and with other meetings and activities, both of which certainly are of need and benefit to the respective congregations and well worth the relatively small expenditures they will entail.

I'll end this month by asking that, as the days shorten and the weather gets colder and car use goes up, when you come to St Patrick's in Castle

Street to think about perhaps sharing the journey with any neighbours making the same trip. As you know the car parking is often under pressure, and some car sharing to and from services might help a little, when not everyone lives within easy walking distance as I do.

Alastair

All the best 'til next time.

YOUTH CLUB

It is very encouraging to see the large numbers at Youth Club on a Saturday night. Some nights we have over 90 children. We are grateful for our leaders but would like some more help to keep up with the numbers. If you feel you could give up an hour or two on a Saturday night please speak to Alan or Lucy. At the minute we have been collecting items and making up shoe boxes for the Christmas appeal. We have also been selling ice cream sundaes to raise money for the Christmas Fair for the church project.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

In Sunday School we have been learning about prayer and the hand of prayer. We have been looking at the prayer Jesus taught us 'The Lord's Prayer' and we are currently learning it and a song about it. We in Sunday School are raising money for the Christmas Fair and the church project by sticking 50 pence pieces onto two church cardboard cut outs and building the church's stonework - when these are completed they will be handed in and each child will receive a gift. Three Sunday School teachers will be attending 'Building Blocks' a children's ministry conference on Saturday 17th November.

Sunday School teachers' meeting Monday 5th November at 8.30 pm.

ENERGIZE

Energize Ballymena is an event running every month for all young people (aged 11 - 16) in the rural deanery. Last month 45 young people met in Portglenone for some fun, food and fellowship together. This month we will meet on Sunday 4th November from 6.30 - 8 pm in Broughshane Parish Church.

Ballyclug Notes

The annual Harvest Supper was once again a huge success, with our own Bill Balmer as compère. Our thanks go to all the various artists for their entertainment and to the backroom staff led by Jackie Greer for organising the event, setting up of the hall, Ian and John for clearing the stage, the car park attendants, Kenneth for the lighting and for all who provided and served the supper. The cake stall also proved very popular. The total collected has reached an amazing £1240 with the money going to the Church Tower Fund, Cancer Research and the Haematology Unit at the City Hospital.

The Church looked lovely for the Harvest Service on 7th October, which was conducted by Canon Lloyd with guest speaker Canon Walter Lewis. Again we were delighted to have the organist and choir from St Patrick's there to lead the singing, our thanks go to them and all who assisted with the decoration of the Church.

There will be another concert in the New Year with the Seven Towers Male Voice Choir in aid of the Tower Fund, further details to follow at a later date.

Ballyclug congregation would like to sincerely wish continued good health and successful treatment to those members who have recently been ill and hopefully will be remembered in your prayers.

CHURCH LADS' BRIGADE/GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY ENROLMENT SERVICE

SUNDAY 18th NOVEMBER AT 10.15 AM ST PATRICK'S PARISH CHURCH

Engaging with your Faith

The Church of Ireland is not a particularly dogmatic denomination. By that I mean that we don't often tell parishioners what they should or should not believe. Now of course we do have our Thirty-Nine Articles (found at the back of your Book of Common Prayer) and we regularly recite our Creeds, and those people of a certain age will remember their Catechism. So we do have a core list of essential beliefs that we advocate, but there is a lot of ground not covered by the Articles, Creeds, and Catechism.

In some other denominations, the ministers (either at a local or national level) often dictate what their members should believe, and this can apply to everything and anything, such as gambling, abortion, living together before marriage, evolution, and a whole host of other issues. Within the Church of Ireland we are not so prescriptive concerning beliefs and moral values, and although each member of the clergy will to some extent promote their own thoughts and opinions, most parishioners are encouraged to think for themselves and come to their own conclusions.

So within this parish, we like to give people information that they can use to make an informed choice on a range of matters, rather than simply telling them what to think. There are strengths and weaknesses to this approach. Whilst some people might love the freedom to explore their faith, others might want to be steered and guided in terms of their spiritual growth. I acknowledge that it is probably quite frustrating for some parishioners who like things to be black and white, to be confronted by clergy who encourage them to consider all shades of opinion. I realise that this can be confusing to some people who want hard and fast rules by which to live their life and well-developed beliefs that they can be taught. However, from the various discipleship groups that I have been involved in (the Bible Fellowship, the Theology Group, the Spirituality Group, the Youth Fellowship, the Young Adults' Fellowship, and most recently the Christian Living Group) I am very aware that actively engaging with our faith leads not to ready-made solutions but merely to more and more questions! Now I personally revel in that opportunity to study, critique and even challenge long-held beliefs. Quite the opposite to undermining my faith, it in fact strengthens it and adds a depth and breadth to it.

What it boils down to is this: God gave us enquiring minds, and like little children observing and questioning all things, we should reflect upon and question our faith as we grow in spiritual maturity. We should wrestle with our beliefs. We should constantly be re-examining our behaviour and our values. Our various discussion groups and house groups within the parish are not just for the academically minded. They are not for the Christian elite, if indeed there is such a thing. They are for everybody and anybody who wants to take their faith seriously. Surely that must mean you. Won't you consider joining one?

4 th October	Isobel Pedlow
24 th October	Norman Thompson
27 th October	James Galbraith

19 Dunclug Gardens,Ballymena43 Coleraine Road,Portrush43 Larne Road, Ballymena

Isobel Pedlow

Isobel was not known to the clergy but the Pedlow family have had links with the parish over many years. The family was brought up in Greenvale Street and Isobel was to go on to work in the Waveney Laundry and then as an auxiliary nurse in the Braid Valley Hospital. There she must have connected with many people but outside of that setting she lived very much to herself. She had been living on her own and was still able on a regular basis to go up the town by taxi. We remember her sisters Lily and Mary and niece Anne.

Norman Thompson

Norman was not a parishioner but through his parents had links with Ballymena and a former family homestead was at Ballymarlow. Living for much of his life in Glengormley he was later to move to Portrush. He trained as an electrician and was also involved in light engineering. A keen sportsman, he played football for Glentoran, Glenavon and was also picked for the Northern Ireland Amateur Team. He also loved his golf and came to play off a low handicap. Known as the quiet man he had been fighting cancer for over 6 years. We remember Sandra and daughter Emma.

James Galbraith

James had been in hospital but was released only to die a few days later in his own bed. His death was thus quite a shock although his health had been declining. He was always based in Ballymena and never went far afield. He was a quiet man who tended to keep to himself. Like so many others he had worked for a time in the Mill but his chief work was with O'Kanes from which he retired. He enjoyed his television and liked to watch his team Arsenal. A member of the Orange Order he carried the banner for many years. We remember his sister Mary still at home and also brothers Jackie and Wallace.
